

Training of Stakeholders on Consultations on Standardization

The acronym of STAND4ALL represents the idea of standardisation and standards considering all needs, which also includes the universal principle of “Design for All”. STAND4ALL is about including the needs of people with disabilities and of old age, not only in the content of standards, but also in the standardisation process.

The STAND4ALL consortium has the objective to develop and implement training courses on standardisation issues. The training will be delivered to two distinct audiences:

- Those representing people with disabilities and of old age are given an introduction to standardisation on national, European, and international levels. (3 courses for maximum of 10 people for each session)
- Standardisation experts such as CEN / CENELEC / ETSI technical committee members are trained to value the input of end-users and to understand the requirements of elderly people and people with disabilities. (2 courses for maximum of 10 people for each session)

The training courses on standardisation will also focus on and promote the use of CEN / CENELEC Guide 6 “Guidelines for standards developers to address the needs of older persons and persons with disabilities”.

The training events will be held in accessible locations in Madrid, Brussels, and London. The training courses will consist of classroom style tuition, group work and role playing sessions. The courses will be held in English. The STAND4ALL project will reimburse any travel expenses and accommodation.

Please use the STAND4ALL application form to apply for a training event and please indicate at which training you wish to participate.

The training dates are as follows (the dates may include travel to and from the location of the training):

October 7th until 10th in Madrid (10 user and 10 experts)

November 9th until 11th in Brussels (10 user and 10 experts)

January 19th until 21st in London (10 users)
